RE: Web Application Development Intern

Dear Hiring Manager,

I was excited to learn about Web Application Development Intern position via Indeed and would greatly appreciate your considering my placement in this role. I've closely reviewed the needs and requirements for this role and believe that my qualifications have prepared me to contribute great value to your organization.

I am Meer, a computer science undergrad at New Jersey Institute of Technology. Throughout my college journey, I have been working closely to learn and develop new technologies and software. I have recently built applications using various software and programming languages, information about these applications can be found on my resume. I am also working with the computing department at my university as a grader & proctor, with this position I have gained great debugging skills in multiple programming languages like Java, PHP, SQL, Python, JavaScript and many more. I have also worked as a technician at a pharmacy where I have gained communication, inventory management, and data entry skills.

My academic experiences have served me well in developing my skills in the field of technology and programming software. I use clear and concise communication to interact professionally with the dev team, supervisors, and clients. I look forward to speaking with you and gaining hands-on exercise in the tech field through this opportunity and I am confident that I can contribute to company's goals. Please take a moment to review my attached resume. Thank you for your time and consideration.

I welcome the opportunity to contribute my skills to your team.

With regards,
Meer Modi
